

Important Bulletin

“According to a new study by Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine and the National Institute on Aging, men and women with hearing loss are much more likely to develop dementia and Alzheimer’s disease. People with severe hearing loss, the study reports, were five times more likely to develop dementia than those with normal hearing.”

“Hearing Loss is now linked to early onset dementia!”

Study by
Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine and the National Institute on Aging.

Have you noticed a change in your ability to remember?

“The more hearing loss you have, the greater the likelihood of developing dementia or Alzheimer’s disease. Hearing aids could delay or prevent dementia by improving the patients’ hearing.” - Johns Hopkins Report

Don’t ignore the WARNING signs:

- You hear loud enough, but can’t understand conversation!
- You overuse the word, “what”!
- You turn the television too loud for others!
- You can’t understand conversation in a noisy environment!
- You have difficulty understanding the lyrics in a song!

According to the Johns Hopkins University study:

“Hearing loss left untreated can lead to at least two other serious problems...
...loneliness and isolation which leads to depression”

Now’s a good time for you...
